Dr. Seelye's LIQUID CATARRH

The symptoms of Catarris are at first very slight—
Persons find they have a cold, that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of imperature. In this condition the nose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and scrid, afterwards thick and adhesive, may ensue.

As the discase becomes chroole, the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are hawked or coughe of. The secretions are offeneive, causing a bad brath; the seess of smell is lessened or destroyed; don neas frequently takes place.

Another common and important symptom of Catarris is that the person is oblight to clear his throat in the morning of a slick or allow musous, which has fallen from the head curing the night. When this takes place, the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the lungs, and should loose no second marresting it.

The above are but a few of the many Catarrial symptoms. Write to our Laboratory for our pamphist describing fully all symptoms; it will be sent FFEE to any address.
